What Is Going To Be Done to Accomodate This Steady Growth?

Forty Families Move To Clearfield Each Year, and Houses Are Still As Scarce as Hen's Teeth

MEET THIS SITUATION SQUARELY, NOW!

BY H. E. BODINE
Secretary, Clearfield Chamber of Commerce

Thirty-two families have moved into Clearfield borough every year for the past five years. To include territory just outside the borough boundary would increase the number to forty. The recent census statistics compiled by the board of health show that there are now just 7,651 people in Clearfield. There are easily 1,400 more within a mile and a half of the court house. Therefore we have approximately 9,000 people in the community. The 1910 government census credited us with 6,851. While Clearfield's growth is not great, it is substantial and solid. The kind you can bank on.

This growth will continue and the rate is more apt to increase than to decrease. Our greatest development has taken place during the past three years. In 1910 and 1911 we went backward rather than forward, as the large number of vacant houses at that time testified. These empty houses helped us to land factories, because they were prospective homes for the new labor.

Through the courtesy of the health officer, we find that owners live in 885 houses in Clearfield, and renters occupy 757, including flats. A most creditable showing. The large majority of new residents are renters. This is true in every growing city. There are today no available tenant houses in Clearfield that are within the means of a working man who wants to move here. In brief, we are "up against it" when the prospective manufacturer asks us where he will house his labor.

This suggestion, submitted by the chamber of commerce, is made with intent to call the attention of all of our citizens to the great seriousness of the one big feature in which Clearfield is not succeeding. This condition must be overcome if we are to continue to thrive industrially.—to become an important manufacturing center,—a producing community,—to bring wealth to our doors by making goods and selling them to the world.

A manufacturing city is first of all a labor center. Hard working men and women object to nothing more than a comfortable little home at reasonable rent. They will not move to a town where rents are high and homes of the kind they demand are lacking. Clearfield rentals among houses of the better class are not too high for a growing city. Our $20 to $30 per month houses compare favorably with those in other prosperous cities. However, in workmen's homes,—neat, attractive, four, five and six room houses at $10 to $15 per month rent,—we have failed. None are being provided—either for sale or rent. All of the houses being built are of a higher class. A very commendable thing so far as the investment of capital and securing of a better paying class of tenants is concerned, but it is the thing that is going to draw factories to Clearfield. Clearfield needs and must have both kinds.

There should be right now under process of erection twenty (20) new dwellings which will rent for $10 to $15 per month. We need them right now. We will need them much more before spring. What safer investment is there for the man or woman with a few hundred, or a few thousand, dollars? It is absolutely secure in any substantial town. In Clearfield it is perfectly safe.—there is no risk. The history of this country proves conclusively that those who invest in real estate not only are protected against all manner of business fluctuations that affect other forms of investment, but with the increase in the value of real estate, they are amply rewarded for effort or labor on their part. The natural growth of the community adds daily to the value of real estate. Clearfield real estate never goes backward in value. Buy a lot. Build a house. Its safe. It is a sign of sound business judgment.

This week the chamber of commerce has been requested to try to secure 15 to 50 men for the New York Central Railroad Company. These men are needed in the yards in East End. They should apply to Mr. N. J. Quikley, train master. More than 100 men have been added to the N. Y. C. force lately. From other sources the chamber of commerce has been receiving requests for labor. Many of our industries need more hands. We must provide houses for them, or we will see our real error too late.

There are many fine lots now for sale, nearly all of them conveniently located. They range from $300 up. Compared with lots similarly located in other thriving towns, many of them are not highly priced. In fact, we know of lots that offer exceptional opportunities to men of moderate means, prices ranging around $100 each, some lower. A good buyer can find scores of lots at very reasonable cost. The writer has investigated that feature. There are plenty of too high priced lots, but the buyer can make his own selection. There are hundreds of lots to choose from. Many of these lots as well located in nearby cities would bring twice what they are now offered for in Clearfield. The buyer must not lose sight of the fact that Clearfield lots are much larger than most city lots,—being two, three and in many instances four times the size of lots in Harrisburg, Altoona, Johnstown, etc. There is a splendid opportunity for you to invest your money in real estate right here in Clearfield. Buy a lot. Build a house.

This article is published by the chamber of commerce in the interest of a greater and more prosperous Clearfield. One of these days a great industry may come knocking at our door, and the question of housing facilities will be put to us point blank. We must be able to answer in the affirmative. We have grown to the point where we must take care of the housing question in a larger and broader way. The time to start is now. You can build now cheaper and better than you will be able to build when the industrial boom, that is surely coming to our country, reaches its height. Build now.

FOUR HURT WHEN CAR TURNS TURTLE NEAR GRASS FLAT

John W. Barrett and Party Escape Serious Injury When Radius Rod Breaks

Piece of Bad Road on Moshannon Creek Hill Causes Accident—Mrs. Carrie Smith Badly Hurt in Back and Side.

While enroute to Penns Cave yesterday, an automobile owned and driven by John Barratt and containing four other passengers met with a serious accident at the top of the Moshannon Creek hill when the car turned upside down, throwing two of the occupants out and pinning the other three occupants under it.

Between Wallaceton and Morrisdale Mr. Barratt ran over a large hole in the road and sprung the radius rod. Several times later he noticed that the car was very hard to steer but he did not know exactly what was causing the trouble. At the top of the Moshannon Creek hill the road was badly cut up and sloping and in order to avoid the worst part of it he steered to the side, at which time the radius rod bent double, causing the car to turn turtle.

Mr. Barratt was thrown into the brush along the side of the road, severly spraining his arm. His son Bruce, who was occupying the other front seat, was thrown 10 feet in front of the car, but escaped without injuries. Mrs. Barratt, Mrs. Carrie Smith and Grace Barratt who were riding in the tonneau were pinned under the car. Mrs. Barratt and Grace escaped with slight injuries and bruises but Mrs. Smith was severly hurt in the side and back. Her injuries are not serious but are giving her considerable pain.

Dr. Kirk, of Tylertown, who happened along the road at a most opportune time, telephoned to relatives in Clearfield who secured automobiles and went to the scene of the accident. The injured were immediately brought to Clearfield where they received medical attention.

BUREAU OF MINES HAS 50,000 MEN READY FOR WAR

Trained In First Aid to the Injured, Would Make Big Assef to the Army

Constitutes Almost Completely Equipped Hospital Service for Force As arge As We Could Muster.

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. 25. –The United States Bureau of Mines is the greatest institution in the country for preparing men for war hospital service, declared Van H. Manning, the new director of the bureau today.

This is one detail of the new "preparedness" program.

"In 48 hours," he said, "50,000 trained 'first-aid-to-injured' experts could be mobilized in the great mining states of the country. I mean the trained mine rescue crews. Think what that would mean when this war has shown that economy in men is of vital importance and that the sooner a wounded man is given treatment the greater the chances are for his return to the firing line.

"Since 1908 the Bureau of Mines has done extensive demonstration and training work among men in the big mining companies throughout the country. Every mine of importance now has its corps of trained mine rescue workers.

"These men are thoroughly expert in all sorts of bandaging, treatment of minor fractures, sterilization of wounds and probing for foreign objects in the body. In addition they are trained to use the oxygen helmet, which will permit them to enter places where the air is too poisonous to be breathed.

"Think how important this will be if the present 'poison gas' method of warfare is developed for a greater use in the future.

"In all mining states there is an annual mobilization of these potential hospital workers. Competitive drills are performed by the crews. This keeps the men in perfect training accustoms them to working together and insures the certainty of quick mobilization in time of war.

"These men form the finest field hospital corps in the world. They can move over all kinds of ground and to overcome extraordinary difficulties due to their mine rescue work experience.

"Another important feature of a hospital service and one for which we are directly responsible, is base railroad cars, containing the necessary supplies and bunks for the "first aid" corps. We have eight such cars, a good nucleus for a complete service in war time, and with scarcely any change in apparatus, they would be ready to carry the crews as near a battle front as need be.

"Is it not an interesting paradox, that we who have devoted our energies to saving men from the dangers of industrial pursuit, should have at the same time trained a force capable of not only saving men from the dangers of warfare but able to send them back to those same dangers again to continue their fight?"

RED AND BLACK FAIL TO SCORE ON HUNTINGDON

Reconstructed Team Put Up A Hard Fight But Are Out Classed By Opponents

Austin and Martin Distinguish Themselves in Offensive, while Stewart, Bowes and Rishel Star in Defensive —Coach Pleased With New Men.

Clearfield with a weakened line up due to the loss of five regular barred from playing until their scholastic standing is satisfactory met with a defeat at the hands of the Huntingdon high school last Saturday, score 16-0. In spite of their loss Clearfield put up a game that was surprising to both coaches and rooters at home. In the open field the line was weak but when their opponents were within ten yards of the goal they fought like Trojans and with fine success as three times in the first quarter they held Huntingdon for downs.

The shake up in the team has been expected and virtually a new team has been built up in the last couple of days, but the reconstructed team, most of whom are playing football this year for the first time, was outplayed by Huntingdon only to a small degree and that team considered itself fortunate to win.

Despite repeated efforts, Huntingdon could make but one gain around the Clearfield ends, but in open field made many 5 and 10 yard gains through the Red and Black line. It was on the defensive when Huntingdon was dangerously near the goal that the Clearfield line distinguished itself. Only four minutes after the first kick off, Huntingdon advanced the ball to the 10 yard line where C. H. S. held them for downs. Twice again during the period did Huntingdon get within the 10 yard line but each time the Clearfield line held like a stone wall. It was not until the second period that Huntingdon tallied a touchdown.

Near the close of the first half Martin intercepted a kick and made a spectacular run for thirty yards, the longest made in the game.

To the C. H. S. rooters the defeat was a bitter one when they realize that the team at normal strength could have easily won from Huntingdon whose team is large but slow.

To the High school athletic authorities and the coach the gameness and aggressiveness shown by the reconstructed team on Saturday was decidely pleasing for it shows that another week of practice for the first team players will develop as formidable an eleven as that of two weeks ago and one worthy of representing the school in the remaining games of the season.

The work of Martin and Austin and the defensive playing of Rishel, Bowes and Stewart was exceptionally good, while on the line Reed and Captain Patchin distinguished themselves.

The line up:

Huntingdon		Clearfield
Mosser	R. E.	Bowes
Montgomery	R. T.	Patchin
Shaffer	R. G.	Reed
Woods	C	Jones

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE IN ALL DAY SESSION SATURDAY

Interesting Meeting of Conference held in Lutheran Church

Fine Program Rendered by Members and Reports of All Departments Read— Forty Delegates Present—Altoona Represented by 14.

The Northeast conference of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Allegheny synod of the Lutheran church met on Saturday in what proved to be a most interesting session in the Lutheran church of this town. About 40 delegates of the synod were present, Altoona having 14 which was the largest representation of any city.

The morning session was opened with devotional exercises by Mrs. E. S. Manning, president of the conference, and the afternoon session by Miss Nellie Berg, synodical president of the missionary society. Both sessions were replete with interesting and instructive papers by the members of the conference. The map talk on "Our India Work" by Miss Fannie Yon, of Altoona in the morning session was particularly enjoyed. In the afternoon, Mrs. J. F. Seebach, of Hollidaysburg most ably represented the Home department with an efficiency chart as also Miss Anna Berg, secretary of misison study. The description of her department was most interesting, illustrated by a beautiful pageant "The King's Highway" presented by two young ladies and several members of the Mission Band. Miss Berg ended with a fine original poem, "End of the Trail," which was suggested by the piece of statuary of that name at the Panama exposition, only the theme of this poem was "The Christian Worker."

Mrs. Charpening of Clearfield, read a paper on "Our Work in Africa" including a letter from the new missionary at Muhlenberg, Sister Laura Gilliland formerly of Clearfield and of whom the missionary society is justly proud.

The magazine secretary, Mrs. A. S. Harnish, of Altoona, presented her department with telling effect and informing the members that the Allegheny synod now has 1290 subscribers to Womans Work, the society's publication.

Miss Amelia Colby sang a beautiful solo. Teh secretary of the Mission Band, Mrs. Joseph Tate gave a fine account of the children's department.

The Thank Offering and Box Work secretaries being absent, their departments were ably handled by other members. A closing hymn was sung and the conference was closed with the benediction by Rev. Allenback.

MANY SEEK ARMY-NAVY TICKETS.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 25.—The Army Athletic Council today began the distribution of the Army's quota of 12,500 seats for the Army and Navy foot ball game to be played in New York next month. The demand this year is said to be unusually heavy and late applicants are likely to encounter difficulty in obtaining the coveted pasteboards. The Army and Navy together will have 25,000 tickets for distribution. The remainder will be placed on sale by the New York National league base ball club.

GERMAN OFFICER ARRESTED IN N. J. FOR BOMB PLOTS

Freely Admits Coming To U. S. To "Stop Shipment of Arms to the Allies"

Three Men Taken in Custody and Will Face Trial on Conspiracy Charge in Weehawken.

(By United Press)

New York, Oct. 25.—Arraigned in a magistrate court at Weehawken, N. J. Robert Fay, alleged German army officer, and Walter L. Scholtz, requested that they be given 24 hours in which to arrange for counsel to defend them on bomb planting conspiracy charges which will be brought by secret service men and the police. The request was granted and both of the alleged anti-British conspirators were returned to jail without bond.

A third arrest was made today when Paul Dache, 34, was taken into custody at his rooming house in Jersey City. Dache, the police declared, made damaging admissions connecting him up with the operations of Fay and Scholtz.

Fay frankly admitted this afternoon that he came to America to stop the shipment of war munitions to the allies. Fay told newspaper men that his passage to the United States had been arranged by German secret service men after he had been relieved of duty in the Prussia military service. He declared, however, that both Captain Boy-ed and Captain Von Papen of the German embassy, refused to have anything to do with his plan. He denied flatly that either had executed or had planned to execute any plot against American munitions plants.

In a storage house the police to-d found two trunks which are believed to have belonged to Fay. They were filled with copper wire, detonating machinery which the authorities declared might be used in making bombs

Landscape Expert Impressed With Fine Possibilities Here

Arthur W. Cowell, of State College Will Report to Chamber of Commerce On Beautification Plans

CIVIC COMMITTEE IS NOW IN ACTION

The visit to Clearfield Saturday and Sunday of Arthur W. Cowell landscape designer and head of the department of landscape gardening at State College marks the first step toward carrying into execution here of the resolution adopted at the last business Men's supper directing the chamber of commerce to appoint a committee to investigate and report on possible development of parks and playgrounds.

Mr. Cowell came to Clearfield at the request of the shade tree commission of which W. T. Patterson is chairman. The request for his detail was sent in to State College some time ago. When after the McFarland lecture the chamber of commerce decided to take up the entire question of playgrounds and parks the shade tree commission determined to make the visit of Mr. Cowell serve as well for the civic committee and the conclusions he reached will be submitted to the civic committee in the form of a written report.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Cowell was shown over the town by a committee consisting of W. H. Patterson, Fred B. Kerr president of the council and E. W. Hess, borough engineer. The various parks were seen, as well as sites suitable for park and playgrounds extension which may be available for use when the plans of the civic committee are made known.

Mr. Cowell was frankyl impressed with the singularly simple possibilities for improvement in parks and landscape development here. He said that he had never seen a town which had so many natural advantages, and one which could beautify itself with so little effort and expense. "You have every natural advantage here," he said, "and all you have to do is to smooth out rough places. The town itself is beautifully located, and with the expenditure of a little effort and money, it can be made into one of the most attractive towns in the state."

The new civic committee appointed by the chamber of commerce is composed of H. B. Powell, F. G. [illegible], W. H. Patterson, A. E. Leitzinger and E. W. Hess. It will make a preliminary investigation of park and playground conditions, and at a future date submit a written report of its recommendations to the chamber of commerce.

The actual work of executing the ideas and plans formulated by this committee will be undertaken by a larger committee to be named when this report is filed. It, too, will probably be called a civic committee, and will be composed of a sufficient number of men and women to insure the success of its undertakings.

This morning W. I. Betts, president of the chamber of commerce, stated to The Progress that members of the Woman's club undoubtedly would be named as members of the larger civic committee which will be named to undertake the "City Beautiful" movement. That they were not named to act with the present body is accounted for by the fact that the resolution under which the committee was named was proposed and adopted as a chamber of commerce project, which will not permit of the selection of non-members for such service

500 YEARS SINCE AGINCOURT.

London, Oct. 25.—"Extra! Extra! Great English Victory on the Continent!" This is the cry of the newsboys that might have been heard in the streets of London 5500 years ago today—had there been any newsboys at that time. It was the day of the battle of Agincourt, October 25, 1415, one of the most celebrated victories in English history. The battle takes its name from the village of Agincourt, in Northern France. Here Henry V, of England, with about 15,000 men, defeated 60,000 French. The French, there were, according to accounts, 10,000 killed, including many members of the nobility. As a result of the victory Henry V soon after obtained the kingdom of France.

Today's great thought: A pig in the attic is worth two in the county home storehouse.

It is surprising how perfectly the local Democratic organization lives up to the party emblem.

The denial published in another column should successfully dispose of the carefuly circulated story that County Commissioner Richards is grooming himself for a soft billet at the county home.

In the lean years which are to follow, it would be more fitting if Bowman aspired to such a sinecure—but well, pigs is pigs, you know.

A well known Democrat describes the action of the court in ruling the Washington party off the ballot as "knowing the Bull." Correct. The Bull Moosers were thrown, but we opine that there will be a ripping sound in the garment next week when the old Bull Moose hooks himself into the Democratic trousers for a final fall.

There are several reasons why our Democratic friends do not want John Bain to be one of the county auditors. In the first place, Bain is an expert accountant, and knows a set of books from a pile of bricks. Again, he wouldn't have to be much of a bookkeeper to know where to put his finger on certain items which, like Banquo's ghost, may rise to disconcert those who now serve most assiduously to compass his defeat. Still, again, it is somewhat generally known that he does know where to look, and will look. The Progress holds no special brief for John Bain, but it does hold a very special brief for scrupulous honesty on the part of public officials, and believes that Bain and Moore will see to it that such principles are enforced.

VOTE THE TICKET, STRAIGHT

There is a normal Republican majority in Clearfield county, now that the Washington party has aligned itself with the old party, and November 3 should see the return of every candidate on the Republican ticket.

There is no occasion to side-swipe the Democratic ticket for reasons why all good Republicans should vote the Republican ticket straight. Reasons might be found—indeed, should one care to find them, they would be many—but we prefer to direct attention to the fact that the gentlemen who are carrying the Republican gonfalon this year are worthy citizens, fully deserving of the support of the party.

The county elections in Pennsylvania this year are included in the preliminary contests which are expected to indicate the temper of the country toward the two major parties for the Presidential contest next year, and it should be the privilege, as it is the duty, of every man who embraces the tenets of Republicanism to register his vote of confidence in the old party and its ability to return the country to the condition of prosperity which it fostered and encouraged through twenty years of successful administration.

You may think your vote a mighty small item in the general result, but bear in mind that if every man looked upon his duty toward his country and his party in that light, we would be controlled by a handful of professional politicians who could sway the temper of the country with ease and safety.

Go to the polls and vote. Your vote is just as big as Mr. Wilson's, and plays just as big a part in determining the national issue when it is cast on such issues. It is just as big as any man's when it is cast to determine local issues—and an issue faces you.

FOREIGNERS IN THE ARMY AND NAVY

In 1898 when the outbreak of war with Spain was only a matter of hours congress proceeded to appropriate fifty millions for military purposes. Now, with no war immediately threatening, it is proposed to appropriate eight times that sum for national defense. This shows not only how the cost of war has advanced in seventeen years but indicates the well-grounded conviction that our next military adveture will cause the little affair with Spain to resemble a mere holiday excursion.

A four hundred million appropriation for a five-year naval building programme and for increasing the army to 120,000 men may be desirable, but there is something further that should receive serious attention from the authorities. We refer to the character, antecedents and birthplace of the men enlisted for both the army and the navy. A year or two some very startling figures in this connection were made public. It was shown that an enormous percentage of the men in our military service were of foreign birth, many of them not even naturalized. In troublous times good Americans are needed in every pursuit, but in the army and navy they are absolutely essential. It will not do to go to war with any number of men in either the army or navy who are not ready to "think of America first," or even men whose sympathy is divided and who therefore may not stand the test in a critical hour. There would seem to be hardly a more important subject than this that can engage the attention of those intrusted with the duty of taking effective steps toward national defense.

PART PLAYED BY BARBED WIRE IN THE GREAT WAR

Entrenchments Protected by Entanglements Impossible for Men To Penetrate

BY WILBUR S. FORREST.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, October 1.— (By Mail)—The part barbed wire plays in the war is graphically portrayed in letters from the front just before the battle September 25, when the Allies after an almost continuous bombardment of three days made their first appreciable advance since the Marne.

To prepare for the infantry advance at only three points it was necessary to expend thousands of tons of shrapnel and high explosives projectiles along practically the whole line from the sea to the Voges. Thus were the Germans kept in ignorance of what particular sections were to be attacked.

"This is the third day of the bombardment," says one correspondent. "Our artillery fire is intense. Point by point, section by section the trenches' barbed wire, has been pelted with a hurricane of shells. Rifle and machine-gun fire has been absent except for straggling bursts at night.

"Looking over the German lines today, not one sign of life could be seen. Not even trench periscopes were turned over the parapets to indicate the watchfulness of the enemy. Doubtless the German infantry is packed away in its deepest dug-outs. The shells have done their best to search them out, and must have made them extremely uncomfortable.

"The spectacle from our side has been wonderful, awe-inspiring. To the Germans it must have been awful. The tremendous shells of our heavy artillery were bursting in spouting geysers of flame and smoke and dust on the sing heap near Lens, among the houses of the villages and along the lines of the trenches. Lyddite from the howitzers plunged into the communication trenches, blew down their parapets and broke down their sides; and shrapnel tore ravagely and unceasingly at the masses of barbed wire entanglement protecting the enemy's front.

"The amount of wire the Germans is squandering ... what part of the front ... same thing is formed ... hedges, piles of wire ... strips ... in heaps ... solid round ... more ...

"It would ... any ... and cut ... nal can ... days of ...

At times while sections of the German lines were blotted out by the slow moving curtain of dust and smoke and through the haze could be seen the vivid orange flame of still more bursting shells and springing clouds and pillars of still denser smoke and dust.

As far as we can see to the north these flashes tell the story of the artillery's ceaseless activity along the battle front; as far as the ear can catch them to the south, the roll and mutter and rumble of the guns tell the same tale.

"Whatever is to come on the morrow—if it is the big advance at last—the British army is ready and eager for it."

the Laymen's Missionary Movement, amounted to about eight millions, last year totaled seventeen and a quarter millions. About double that increase has been turned into the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home, and a larger proportion still goes to the work of the local churches. This is due largely to the adoption of the methods of church finance introduced and promoted by the movement and to the increasing interest of the money owners and money makers, the men of the churches in the church's great world work.

The movement has reached out to Great Britain, Australia and several countries of Europe till now its spirit and purpose have attained a worldwide reach.

The present world situation, in which two of the three great Protestant Christian powers are engaged in fratricidal strife, places an altogether unprecedented burden upon the Christian forces of this country to sustain and promote the world missionary enterprises of the church.

The Pittsburgh convention will be held in Exposition hall Oct. 24-27.

Mainly About Women

Sarah Bernhardt will celebrate her 70th birthday tomorrow.

"Suffrage Day" will be celebrated tomorrow at the Texas State Fair in Dallas.

Mrs. Clara Sibley Hill will soon complete her twelfth year as postmaster at Amherst, Mass.

The Bar association of the City of Boston has decided that women lawyers are eligible to membership.

The National P. E. O., which is to hold its annual convention in San Francisco next week, ils one of the largest benevolent organizations of women in the world.

Mme. Carton de Wiart, wife of the Belgian Minister of Justice, has been released from jail in Berlin after having served three months on a charge of spying against the Germans.

It is conservatively estimated that 15,000 women will march in the great suffrage parade in New York city tomorrow night. Women representing 26 different nationalities will be in line.

The Oregon federation of Women's clubs has invited the Rt. Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, to be the principal speaker at the annual convention of the federation in Salem next week.

Mrs. Delva Lockwood who will celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday next Sunday, is the first woman admitted to the practice of law in the United States courts and the only woman who was ever a genuine candidate for the high office of President of the United States.

A stream of blazing light will pour down Broad street in Philadelphia tomorrow night, when the suffragist grand festival of light will welcome to the Quaker City the Woman's Justice Bell, which has been taken on a state-wide tour of Pensylvania as a feature of the suffrage campaign in that state.

The Empress Augusta Victoria, consort of the German Emperor, celebrates her fifty-seventh birthday anniversary today, having been born Oct. 22, 1858, at Schloss Dolzig, the daughter of the Duke and Duchess Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein. The Empress is just three months and five days older than her husband.

The women of twelve states at least will have the privilege of voting at the presidential election next year. These states are Kansas, Illinois, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.. They will also vote in Alaska. The total number of women entitled to vote in nearly four million.

The $200,000 building of the Woman's benefit association of the Maccabees, for which the cornerstone is to be laid today at Port Huron, Mich., will be a monument largely to the efforts of one woman—Miss Bina M. West, the founder and head of the organization. The organization is the largest fraternal benefit society in the world for women. Miss West started the organization in 1892, with no members and no funds. Today there are more than 185,000 women enrolled in the membership of the society. That it has been a success financially as well as numerically is evidenced by the fact that the society has a reserve fund of nearyl $9,000,000, after having paid our nearly $13,000,000 in benefits. At the last convention of the society the delegates passed a resolution to double the salary of Miss West as president, but she steadfastly refused to accept the proposed increase.

Five Centuries of Hohenzollerns

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Not by elaborate public fetes such as would have marked the occasion in normal times, but by quiet ceremonies at schools and in places of worship, did the German people celebrate today the five hundredth anniversary of the Hohenzollerns' accession to power.

Five hundred years ago the Hohenzollerns were mere Burgraves of Nuremberg. One of them, Frederick, had rendered great services to Sigismund, Emperor of Germany, who, as a reward, made Frederick supreme commander of the Marches of Brandenburg, The emperor next raised Frederick to the position of Elector of the Holy German Empire, and on October 21, 1415, he received the homage of his subjects.

Such was the beginning of the ascendancy of the imperial family of which Emperor William II, is now the head. The real era of prominence for the Hohenzollerns did not begin, however, until the time of Frederick William, the Greae Elector, who died in 1688, after having greatly enhanced the prestige of Germany through his successes in the Thirty Years' War.

The Great Elector was succeeded by his son, Frederick III, of Brandenburg, who became the first king of Prussia and assumed the title of Frederick I. Frederick married Sophia Charlotte, a sister of King George I, of England. Born of the union was Frederick William I., the second king of Prussia, who in turn was the father of Frederick II., the third king of Prussia, more often known as Frederick the Great.

A few months after the ascession to the throne Frederick the Great made a sudden invasion of Silesia and began the war of the Austrian succession. Some years later, a powerful coalition having been formed against him by Austria, Russia, France and other powers, Frederick became involved in the Seven Years' War, with the English as an ally. The result of the long war was that Frederick kept Silesia and ceded nothing.

The next of the Hohenzollerns to make a prominent place for himself in history was Frederick William III, who succeeded to the throne in 1797 and reigned until his death in 1840. Frederick William III, had to contend against the might of Napoleon, and, after extraordinary vicissitudes, he aided England in his overthrow.

Frederick William IV came to the throne on the death of his father in 1840 and reigned as king of Prussia until his death in 1861. The successor of Frederick William IV, was his younger brother, who, after waging war successfully against Austria (1866) and France (1870,) was proclaimed first German Emperor at Versailles, January 18, 1871.

William I. died in 1888 and was succeeded by his son, who had distinguished himself at the head of the German armies in the war against France. He came to the throne at the age of 57 years and assumed the title of Frederick III. At the age of 30 he had married the Princess Royal of England, eldest daughter of the late Queen Victoria. Three months after his accession the Emperor Frederick died of cancer of the throat. He was succeeded on the throne by his eldest son, the present Emperor William II, who began his reign June 15, 1888, at the age of 29 years.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN CALIFORNIA.

Sacramento, Oct. 25.—The "non-partisan ballot" campaign, which has stirred California from end to end, came to a close today. Tomorrow, at a special state-wide election, the one million voters of California will decide whether or not they desire party titles retained in their state politics. At the same time the fate of eight other proposed amendments to the constitution, the most of them of minor importance, will be decided by the voters.

The last legislature passed a law abolishing the party title in connection with all state, county and municipal offices and by the operation of the referendum it now comes before the people for final decision. If the people ratify the measure there will hereafter be no such thing as party nominations and campaigns by committee, each candidate securing his place on the ballot by petition and making an individual contest. In the selection of United States senators and representatives, the party title is to be retained.

ARMY SERGEANT ACCUSED.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 25.—Forrest R. Jacobs, quartermaster sergeant in the supplies department at Fort Adams, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Healy today for hearing on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government. The details the alleged conspiracy have not been made public, but it has been intimated by the federal district attorney that the trial of Jacobs may show a wide and extensive plan to defraud the government. Jacobs has been in the army 30 years and was on a furlough when he learned that he was wanted by the federal authorities. He immediately returned to Newport and was placed under military arrest.

The National P. E. O., which is to hold its annual convention in San Francisco next week, is one of the largest benevolent organizations of women in the world.

Mme. Carton de Wiart, wife of the Belgian Minister of Justice, has been released from jail in Berlin after having served three months on a charge of spying against the Germans.

It is conservatively estimated that 15,000 women will march in the great suffrage parade in New York city tomorrow night. Women representing 26 different nationalities will be in line.

The Oregon federation of Women's clubs has invited the Rt. Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, to be the principal speaker at the annual convention of the federation in Salem next week.

Mrs. Delva Lockwood who will celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday next Sunday, is the first woman admitted to the practice of law in the United States courts and the only woman who was ever a genuine candidate for the high office of President of the United States.

A stream of blazing light will pour down Broad street in Philadelphia tomorrow night, when the suffragist grand festival of light will welcome to the Quaker City the Woman's Justice Bell, which has been taken on a state-wide tour of Pensylvania as a feature of the suffrage campaign in that state.

The Empress Augusta Victoria, consort of the German Emperor, celebrates her fifty-seventh birthday anniversary today, having been born Oct. 22, 1858, at Schloss Dolzig, the daughter of the Duke and Duchess Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein. The women of twelve states at least will have the privilege of voting at the presidential election next year. These states are Kansas, Illinois, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. They will also vote in Alaska. The $200,000 building of the Woman's benefit association of the Maccabees, for which the cornerstone is to be laid today at Port Huron, Mich., will be a monument largely to the efforts of one woman—Miss Bina M. West, the founder and head of the organization. The organization is the largest fraternal benefit society in the world for women. Miss West started the organization in 1892, with no members and no funds. Today there are more than 185,000 women enrolled in the membership of the society. That it has been a success financially as well as numerically is evidenced by the fact that the society has a reserve fund of nearyl $9,000,000, after having paid our nearly $13,000,000 in benefits. At the last convention of the society the delegates passed a resolution to double the salary of Miss West as president, but she steadfastly refused to accept the proposed increase.

Five Centuries of Hohenzollerns

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Not by elaborate public fetes such as would have marked the occasion in normal times, but by quiet ceremonies at schools and in places of worship, did the German people celebrate today the five hundredth anniversary of the Hohenzollerns' accession to power.

Five hundred years ago the Hohenzollerns were mere Burgraves of Nuremberg. One of them, Frederick, had rendered great services to Sigismund, Emperor of Germany, who, as a reward, made Frederick supreme commander of the Marches of Brandenburg, The emperor next raised Frederick to the position of Elector of the Holy German Empire, and on October 21, 1415, he received the homage of his subjects.

Such was the beginning of the ascendancy of the imperial family of which Emperor William II, is now the head. The real era of prominence for the Hohenzollerns did not begin, however, until the time of Frederick William, the Greae Elector, who died in 1688, after having greatly enhanced the prestige of Germany through his successes in the Thirty Years' War.

The Great Elector was succeeded by his son, Frederick III, of Brandenburg, who became the first king of Prussia and assumed the title of Frederick I. Frederick married Sophia Charlotte, a sister of King George I, of England. Born of the union was Frederick William I., the second king of Prussia, who in turn was the father of Frederick II., the third king of Prussia, more often known as Frederick the Great.

A few months after the ascession to the throne Frederick the Great made a sudden invasion of Silliesia and began the war of the Austrian succession. Some years later, a powerful coalition having been formed against him by Austria, Russia, France and other powers, Frederick became involved in the Seven Years' War, with the English as an ally. The result of the long war was that Frederick kept Silesia and ceded nothing.

The next of the Hohenzollerns to make a prominent place for himself in history was Frederick William III, who succeeded to the throne in 1797 and reigned until his death in 1840. Frederick William III, had to contend against the might of Napoleon, and, after extraordinary vicissitudes, he aided England in his overthrow.

Frederick William IV came to the throne on the death of his father in 1840 and reigned as king of Prussia until his death in 1861. The successor of Frederick William IV, was his younger brother, who, after waging war successfully against Austria (1866) and France (1870,) was proclaimed first German Emperor at Versailles, January 18, 1871.

William I. died in 1888 and was succeeded by his son, who had distinguished himself at the head of the German armies in the war against France. He came to the throne at the age of 57 years and assumed the title of Frederick III. At the age of 30 he had married the Princess Royal of England, eldest daughter of the late Queen Victoria. Three months after his accession the Emperor Frederick died of cancer of the throat. He was succeeded on the throne by his eldest son, the present Emperor William II, who began his reign June 15, 1888, at the age of 29 years.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN CALIFORNIA.

Sacramento, Oct. 25.—The "non-partisan ballot" campaign, which has stirred California from end to end, came to a close today. Tomorrow, at a special state-wide election, the one million voters of California will decide whether or not they desire party titles retained in their state politics. At the same time the fate of eight other proposed amendments to the constitution, the most of them of minor importance, will be decided by the voters.

The last legislature passed a law abolishing the party title in connection with all state, county and municipal offices and by the operation of the referendum it now comes before the people for final decision. If the people ratify the measure there will hereafter be no such thing as party nominations and campaigns by committee, each candidate securing his place on the ballot by petition and making an individual contest. In the selection of United States senators and representatives, the party title is to be retained.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 25.—Forrest R. Jacobs, quartermaster sergeant in the supplies department at Fort Adams, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Healy today for hearing on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government. Jacobs has been in the army 30 years and was on a furlough when he learned that he was wanted by the federal authorities. He immediately returned to Newport and was placed under military arrest.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You Darken Gray, Faded Hair With Sage Tea

Grandmother kept her hair beautiful, darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. When ever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This will restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. 1

What Is Going To Be Done to Accomodate This Steady Growth?

Forty Families Move To Clearfield Each Year, and Houses Are Still As Scarce as Hen's Teeth

MEET THIS SITUATION SQUARELY, NOW!

BY H. E. BODINE
Secretary, Clearfield Chamber of Commerce

Thirty-two families have moved into Clearfield borough every year for the past five years. To include territory just outside the borough boundary would increase the number to forty. The recent census statistics compiled by the board of health show that there are now just 7,651 people in Clearfield. There are easily 1,400 more within a mile and a half of the court house. Therefore we have approximately 9,000 people in the community. The 1910 government census credited us with 6,851. While Clearfield's growth is not great, it is substantial and solid. The kind you can bank on.

This growth will continue and the rate is more apt to increase than to decrease. Our greatest development has taken place during the past three years. In 1910 and 1911 we went backward rather than forward, as the large number of vacant houses at that time testified. These empty houses helped us to land factories, because they were prospective homes for the new labor.

Through the courtesy of the health officer, we find that owners live in 885 houses in Clearfield, and renters occupy 757, including flats. A most creditable showing. The large majority of new residents are renters. This is true in every growing city. There are today no available tenant houses in Clearfield that are within the means of a working man who wants to move here. In brief, we are "up against it" when the prospective manufacturer asks us where he will house his labor.

This suggestion, submitted by the chamber of commerce, is made with intent to call the attention of all of our citizens to the great seriousness of the one big feature in which Clearfield is not succeeding. This condition must be overcome if we are to continue to thrive industrially.—to become an important manufacturing center,—a producing community,—to bring wealth to our doors by making goods and selling them to the world.

A manufacturing city is first of all a labor center. Hard working men and women object to nothing more than a comfortable little home at reasonable rent. They will not move to a town where rents are high and homes of the kind they demand are lacking. Clearfield rentals among houses of the better class are not too high for a growing city. Our $20 to $30 per month houses compare favorably with those in other prosperous cities. However, in workmen's homes,—neat, attractive, four, five and six room houses at $10 to $15 per month rent,—we have failed. None are being provided—either for sale or rent. All of the houses being built are of a higher class. A very commendable thing so far as the investment of capital and securing of a better paying class of tenants is concerned, but the thing that is going to draw factories to Clearfield. Clearfield needs and must have both kinds.

There should be right now under process of erection twenty (20) new dwellings which will rent for $10 to $15 per month. We need them right now. We will need them much more before spring. What safer investment is there for the man or woman with a few hundred, or a few thousand, dollars? It is absolutely secure in any substantial town. In Clearfield it is perfectly safe.—there is no risk. The history of this country proves conclusively that those who invest in real estate not only are protected against all manner of business fluctuations that affect other forms of investment, but with the increase in the value of real estate, they are amply rewarded for effort or labor on their part. The natural growth of the community adds daily to the value of real estate. Clearfield real estate never goes backward in value. Buy a lot. Build a house. Its safe. It is a sign of sound business judgment.

This week the chamber of commerce has been requested to try to secure 15 to 50 men for the New York Central Railroad Company. These men are needed in the yards in East End. They should apply to Mr. N. J. Quikley, train master. More than 100 men have been added to the N. Y. C. force lately. From other sources the chamber of commerce has been receiving requests for labor. Many of our industries need more hands. We must provide houses for them, or we will see our real error too late.

There are many fine lots now for sale, nearly all of them conveniently located. They range from $300 up. Compared with lots similarly located in other thriving towns, many of them are not highly priced. In fact, we know of lots that offer exceptional opportunities to men of moderate means, prices ranging around $100 each, some lower. A good buyer can find scores of lots at very reasonable cost. The writer has investigated that feature. There are plenty of too high priced lots, but the buyer can make his own selection. There are hundreds of lots to choose from. Many of these lots as well located in nearby cities would bring twice what they are now offered for in Clearfield. The buyer must not lose sight of the fact that Clearfield lots are much larger than most city lots,—being two, three and in many instances four times the size of lots in Harrisburg, Altoona, Johnstown, etc. There is a splendid opportunity for you to invest your money in real estate right here in Clearfield. Buy a lot. Build a house.

This article is published by the chamber of commerce in the interest of a greater and more prosperous Clearfield. One of these days a great industry may come knocking at our door, and the question of housing facilities will be put to us point blank. We must be able to answer in the affirmative. We have grown to the point where we must take care of the housing question in a larger and broader way. The time to start is now. You can build now cheaper and better than you will be able to build when the industrial boom, that is surely coming to our country, reaches its height. Build now.

FOUR HURT WHEN CAR TURNS TURTLE NEAR GRASS FLAT

John W. Barrett and Party Escape Serious Injury When Radius Rod Breaks

Piece of Bad Road on Moshannon Creek Hill Causes Accident—Mrs. Carrie Smith Badly Hurt in Back and Side.

While enroute to Penns Cave yesterday, an automobile owned and driven by John Barratt and containing four other passengers met with a serious accident at the top of the Moshannon Creek hill when the car turned upside down, throwing two of the occupants out and pinning the other three occupants under it.

Between Wallaceton and Morrisdale Mr. Barratt ran over a large hole in the road and sprung the radius rod. Several times later he noticed that the car was very hard to steer but he did not know exactly what was causing the trouble. At the top of the Moshannon Creek hill the road was badly cut up and sloping and in order to avoid the worst part of it he steered to the side, at which time the radius rod bent double, causing the car to turn turtle.

Mr. Barratt was thrown into the brush along the side of the road, severly spraining his arm. His son Bruce, who was occupying the other front seat, was thrown 10 feet in front of the car, but escaped without injuries. Mrs. Barratt, Mrs. Carrie Smith and Grace Barratt who were riding in the tonneau were pinned under the car. Mrs. Barratt and Grace escaped with slight injuries and bruises but Mrs. Smith was severly hurt in the side and back. Her injuries are not serious but are giving her considerable pain.

Dr. Kirk, of Tylertown, who happened along the road at a most opportune time, telephoned to relatives in Clearfield who secured automobiles and went to the scene of the accident. The injured were immediately brought to Clearfield where they received medical attention.

BUREAU OF MINES HAS 50,000 MEN READY FOR WAR

Trained In First Aid to the Injured, Would Make Big Assef to the Army

Constitutes Almost Completely Equipped Hospital Service for Force As arge As We Could Muster.

(By U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Oct. 25. –The United States Bureau of Mines is the greatest institution in the country for preparing men for war hospital service, declared Van H. Manning, the new director of the bureau today.

This is one detail of the new "preparedness" program.

"In 48 hours," he said, "50,000 trained 'first-aid-to-injured' experts could be mobilized in the great mining states of the country. I mean the trained mine rescue crews. Think what that would mean when this war has shown that economy in men is of vital importance and that the sooner a wounded man is given treatment the greater the chances are for his return to the firing line.

"Since 1908 the Bureau of Mines has done extensive demonstration and training work among men in the big mining companies throughout the country. Every mine of importance now has its corps of trained mine rescue workers.

"These men are thoroughly expert in all sorts of bandaging, treatment of minor fractures, sterilization of wounds and probing for foreign objects in the body. In addition they are trained to use the oxygen helmet, which will permit them to enter places where the air is too poisonous to be breathed.

"Think how important this will be if the present 'poison gas' method of warfare is developed for a greater use in the future.

"In all mining states there is an annual mobilization of these potential hospital workers. Competitive drills are performed by the crews. This keeps the men in perfect training accustoms them to working together and insures the certainty of quick mobilization in time of war.

"These men form the finest field hospital corps in the world. They can move over all kinds of ground and to overcome extraordinary difficulties due to their mine rescue work experience.

"Another important feature of a hospital service and one for which we are directly responsible, is base railroad cars, containing the necessary supplies and bunks for the "first aid" corps. We have eight such cars, a good nucleus for a complete service in war time, and with scarcely any change in apparatus, they would be ready to carry the crews as near a battle front as need be.

"Is it not an interesting paradox, that we who have devoted our energies to saving men from the dangers of industrial pursuit, should have at the same time trained a force capable of not only saving men from the dangers of warfare but able to send them back to those same dangers again to continue their fight?"

RED AND BLACK FAIL TO SCORE ON HUNTINGDON

Reconstructed Team Put Up A Hard Fight But Are Out Classed By Opponents

Austin and Martin Distinguish Themselves in Offensive, while Stewart, Bowes and Rishel Star in Defensive —Coach Pleased With New Men.

Clearfield with a weakened line up due to the loss of five regular barred from playing until their scholastic standing is satisfactory met with a defeat at the hands of the Huntingdon high school last Saturday, score 16-0. In spite of their loss Clearfield put up a game that was surprising to both coaches and rooters at home. In the open field the line was weak but when their opponents were within ten yards of the goal they fought like Trojans and with fine success as three times in the first quarter they held Huntingdon for downs.

The shake up in the team has been expected and virtually a new team has been built up in the last couple of days, but the reconstructed team, most of whom are playing football this year for the first time, was outplayed by Huntingdon only to a small degree and that team considered itself fortunate to win.

Despite repeated efforts, Huntingdon could make but one gain around the Clearfield ends, but in open field made many 5 and 10 yard gains through the Red and Black line. It was on the defensive when Huntingdon was dangerously near the goal that the Clearfield line distinguished itself. Only four minutes after the first kick off, Huntingdon advanced the ball to the 10 yard line where C. H. S. held them for downs. Twice again during the period did Huntingdon get within the 10 yard line but each time the Clearfield line held like a stone wall. It was not until the second period that Huntingdon tallied a touchdown.

Near the close of the first half Martin intercepted a kick and made a spectacular run for thirty yards, the longest made in the game.

To the C. H. S. rooters the defeat was a bitter one when they realize that the team at normal strength could have easily won from Huntingdon whose team is large but slow.

To the High school athletic authorities and the coach the gameness and aggressiveness shown by the reconstructed team on Saturday was decidely pleasing for it shows that another week of practice for the first team players will develop as formidable an eleven as that of two weeks ago and one worthy of representing the school in the remaining games of the season.

The work of Martin and Austin and the defensive playing of Rishel, Bowes and Stewart was exceptionally good, while on the line Reed and Captain Patchin distinguished themselves.

The line up:

Huntingdon		Clearfield
Mosser	R. E.	Bowes
Montgomery	R. T.	Patchin
Shaffer	R. G.	Reed
Woods	C	Jones
Swoope	L. G.	McGonigal

MISSIONARY CONFERENCE IN ALL DAY SESSION SATURDAY

Interesting Meeting of Conference held in Lutheran Church

Fine Program Rendered by Members and Reports of All Departments Read— Forty Delegates Present—Altoona Represented by 14.

The Northeast conference of the Women's Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Allegheny synod of the Lutheran church met on Saturday in what proved to be a most interesting session in the Lutheran church of this town. About 40 delegates of the synod were present, Altoona having 14 which was the largest representation of any city.

The morning session was opened with devotional exercises by Mrs. E. S. Manning, president of the conference, and the afternoon session by Miss Nellie Berg, synodical president of the missionary society. Both sessions were replete with interesting and instructive papers by the members of the conference. The map talk on "Our India Work" by Miss Fannie Yon, of Altoona in the morning session was particularly enjoyed. In the afternoon, Mrs. J. F. Seebach, of Hollidaysburg most ably represented the Home department with an efficiency chart as also Miss Anna Berg, secretary of misison study. The description of her department was most interesting, illustrated by a beautiful pageant "The King's Highway" presented by two young ladies and several members of the Mission Band. Miss Berg ended with a fine original poem, "End of the Trail," which was suggested by the piece of statuary of that name at the Panama exposition, only the theme of this poem was "The Christian Worker."

Mrs. Charpening of Clearfield, read a paper on "Our Work in Africa" including a letter from the new missionary at Muhlenberg, Sister Laura Gilliland formerly of Clearfield and of whom the missionary society is justly proud.

The magazine secretary, Mrs. A. S. Harnish, of Altoona, presented her department with telling effect and informing the members that the Allegheny synod now has 1290 subscribers to Womans Work, the society's publication.

Miss Amelia Colby sang a beautiful solo. Teh secretary of the Mission Band, Mrs. Joseph Tate gave a fine account of the children's department.

The Thank Offering and Box Work secretaries being absent, their departments were ably handled by other members. A closing hymn was sung and the conference was closed with the benediction by Rev. Allenback.

MANY SEEK ARMY-NAVY TICKETS.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 25.—The Army Athletic Council today began the distribution of the Army's quota of 12,500 seats for the Army and Navy foot ball game to be played in New York next month. The demand this year is said to be unusually heavy and late applicants are likely to encounter difficulty in obtaining the coveted pasteboards. The Army and Navy together will have 25,000 tickets for distribution. The remainder will be placed on sale by the New York National league base ball club.

Landscape Expert Impressed With Fine Possibilities Here

Arthur W. Cowell, of State College Will Report to Chamber of Commerce On Beautification Plans

CIVIC COMMITTEE IS NOW IN ACTION

The visit to Clearfield Saturday and Sunday of Arthur W. Cowell landscape designer and head of the department of landscape gardening at State College marks the first step toward carrying into execution here of the resolution adopted at the last business Men's supper directing the chamber of commerce to appoint a committee to investigate and report on possible development of parks and playgrounds.

Mr. Cowell came to Clearfield at the request of the shade tree commission of which W. T. Patterson is chairman. The request for his detail was sent in to State College some time ago. When after the McFarland lecture the chamber of commerce decided to take up the entire question of playgrounds and parks the shade tree commission determined to make the visit of Mr. Cowell serve as well for the civic committee and the conclusions he reached will be submitted to the civic committee in the form of a written report.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Cowell was shown over the town by a committee consisting of W. H. Patterson, Fred B. Kerr president of the council and E. W. Hess, borough engineer. The various parks were seen, as well as sites suitable for park and playgrounds extension which may be available for use when the plans of the civic committee are made known.

Mr. Cowell was frankyl impressed with the singularly simple possibilities for improvement in parks and landscape development here. He said that he had never seen a town which had so many natural advantages, and one which could beautify itself with so little effort and expense. "You have every natural advantage here," he said, "and all you have to do is to smooth out rough places. The town itself is beautifully located, and with the expenditure of a little effort and money, it can be made into one of the most attractive towns in the state."

The new civic committee appointed by the chamber of commerce is composed of H. B. Powell, F. G. [illegible], W. H. Patterson, A. E. Leitzinger and E. W. Hess. It will make a preliminary investigation of park and playground conditions, and at a future date submit a written report of its recommendations to the chamber of commerce.

The actual work of executing the ideas and plans formulated by this committee will be undertaken by a larger committee to be named when this report is filed. It, too, will probably be called a civic committee, and will be composed of a sufficient number of men and women to insure the success of its undertakings.

This morning W. I. Betts, president of the chamber of commerce, stated to The Progress that members of the Woman's club undoubtedly would be named as members of the larger civic committee which will be named to undertake the "City Beautiful" movement. That they were not named to act with the present body is accounted for by the fact that the resolution under which the committee was named was proposed and adopted as a chamber of commerce project, which will not permit of the selection of non-members for such service

Freely Admits Coming To U. S. To "Stop Shipment of Arms to the Allies"

Three Men Taken in Custody and Will Face Trial on Conspiracy Charge in Weehawken.

(By United Press)

New York, Oct. 25.—Arraigned in a magistrate court at Weehawken, N. J. Robert Fay, alleged German army officer, and Walter L. Scholtz, requested that they be given 24 hours in which to arrange for counsel to defend them on bomb planting conspiracy charges which will be brought by secret service men and the police. The request was granted and both of the alleged anti-British conspirators were returned to jail without bond.

A third arrest was made today when Paul Dache, 34, was taken into custody at his rooming house in Jersey City. Dache, the police declared, made damaging admissions connecting him up with the operations of Fay and Scholtz.

Fay frankly admitted this afternoon that he came to America to stop the shipment of war munitions to the allies. Fay told newspaper men that his passage to the United States had been arranged by German secret service men after he had been relieved of duty in the Prussia military service. He declared, however, that both Captain Boy-ed and Captain Von Papen of the German embassy, refused to have anything to do with his plan. He denied flatly that either had executed or had planned to execute any plot against American munitions plants.

In a storage house the police to[illegible] found two trunks which are believed to have belonged to Fay. They were filled with copper wire, detonating machinery which the authorities declared might [illegible] making bombs

500 YEARS SINCE AGINCOURT.

London, Oct. 25.—"Extra! Extra! Great English Victory on the Continent!" This is the cry of the newsboys that might have been heard in the streets of London 5500 years ago today—had there been any newsboys at that time. It was the day of the battle of Agincourt, October 25, 1415, one of the most celebrated victories in English history. The battle takes its name from the village of Agincourt, in Northern France. Here Henry V, of England, with about 15,000 men, defeated 60,000 French. The French, there were, according to accounts, 10,000 killed, including many members of the nobility. As a result of the victory Henry V soon after obtained the kingdom of France.

MONDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 25, 1915

Today's great thought: A pig in the attic is worth two in the county home storehouse.

It is surprising how perfectly the local Democratic organization lives up to the party emblem.

The denial published in another column should successfully dispose of the carefuly circulated story that County Commissioner Richards is grooming himself for a soft billet at the county home.

In the lean years which are to follow, it would be more fitting if Bowman aspired to such a sinecure—but well, pigs is pigs, you know.

A well known Democrat describes the action of the court in ruling the Washington party off the ballot as "knowing the Bull." Correct. The Bull Moosers were thrown, but we opine that there will be a ripping sound in the garment next week when the old Bull Moose hooks himself into the Democratic trousers for a final fall.

There are several reasons why our Democratic friends do not want John Bain to be one of the county auditors. In the first place, Bain is an expert accountant, and knows a set of books from a pile of bricks. Again, he wouldn't have to be much of a bookkeeper to know where to put his finger on certain items which, like Banquo's ghost, may rise to disconcert those who now serve most assiduously to compass his defeat. Still, again, it is somewhat generally known that he does know where to look, and will look. The Progress holds no special brief for John Bain, but it does hold a very special brief for scrupulous honesty on the part of public officials, and believes that Bain and Moore will see to it that such principles are enforced.

VOTE THE TICKET, STRAIGHT

There is a normal Republican majority in Clearfield county, now that the Washington party has aligned itself with the old party, and November 3 should see the return of every candidate on the Republican ticket.

There is no occasion to side-swipe the Democratic ticket for reasons why all good Republicans should vote the Republican ticket straight. Reasons might be found—indeed, should one care to find them, they would be many—but we prefer to direct attention to the fact that the gentlemen who are carrying the Republican gonfalon this year are worthy citizens, fully deserving of the support of the party.

The county elections in Pennsylvania this year are included in the preliminary contests which are expected to indicate the temper of the country toward the two major parties for the Presidential contest next year, and it should be the privilege, as it is the duty, of every man who embraces the tenets of Republicanism to register his vote of confidence in the old party and its ability to return the country to the condition of prosperity which it fostered and encouraged through twenty years of successful administration.

You may think your vote a mighty small item in the general result, but bear in mind that if every man looked upon his duty toward his country and his party in that light, we would be controlled by a handful of professional politicians who could sway the temper of the country with ease and safety.

Go to the polls and vote. Your vote is just as big as Mr. Wilson's, and plays just as big a part in determining the national issue when it is cast on such issues. It is just as big as any man's when it is cast to determine local issues—and an issue faces you.

FOREIGNERS IN THE ARMY AND NAVY

In 1898 when the outbreak of war with Spain was only a matter of hours congress proceeded to appropriate fifty millions for military purposes. Now, with no war immediately threatening, it is proposed to appropriate eight times that sum for national defense. This shows not only how the cost of war has advanced in seventeen years but indicates the well-grounded conviction that our next military adveture will cause the little affair with Spain to resemble a mere holiday excursion.

A four hundred million appropriation for a five-year naval building programme and for increasing the army to 120,000 men may be desirable, but there is something further that should receive serious attention from the authorities. We refer to the character, antecedents and birthplace of the men enlisted for both the army and the navy. A year or two some very startling figures in this connection were made public. It was shown that an enormous percentage of the men in our military service were of foreign birth, many of them not even naturalized. In troublous times good Americans are needed in every pursuit, but in the army and navy they are absolutely essential. It will not do to go to war with any number of men in either the army or navy who are not ready to "think of America first," or even men whose sympathy is divided and who therefore may not stand the test in a critical hour. There would seem to be hardly a more important subject than this that can engage the attention of those intrusted with the duty of taking effective steps toward national defense.

PART PLAYED BY BARBED WIRE IN THE GREAT WAR

Entrenchments Protected by Entanglements Impossible for Men To Penetrate

BY WILBUR S. FORREST.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, October 1.— (By Mail)—The part barbed wire plays in the war is graphically portrayed in letters from the front just before the battle September 25, when the Allies after an almost continuous bombardment of three days made their first appreciable advance since the Marne.

To prepare for the infantry advance at only three points it was necessary to expend thousands of tons of shrapnel and high explosives projectiles along practically the whole line from the sea to the Voges. Thus were the Germans kept in ignorance of what particular sections were to be attacked.

"This is the third day of the bombardment," says one correspondent. "Our artillery fire is intense. Point by point, section by section the trenches' barbed wire, has been pelted with a hurricane of shells. Rifle and machine-gun fire has been absent except for straggling bursts at night.

"Looking over the German lines today, not one sign of life could be seen. Not even trench periscopes were turned over the parapets to indicate the watchfulness of the enemy. Doubtless the German infantry is packed away in its deepest dug-outs. The shells have done their best to search them out, and must have made them extremely uncomfortable.

"The spectacle from our side has been wonderful, awe-inspiring. To the Germans it must have been awful. The tremendous shells of our heavy artillery were bursting in spouting geysers of flame and smoke and dust on the sing heap near Lens, among the houses of the villages and along the lines of the trenches. Lyddite from the howitzers plunged into the communication trenches, blew down their parapets and broke down their sides; and shrapnel tore ravagely and unceasingly at the masses of barbed wire entanglement protecting the enemy's front.

"The amount of wire the Germans is squandering ... what part of the front ... same thing is formed ... hedges, piles of wire ... strips ... in heaps ... solid round ... more ...

Every hour shall thus fall shells on an enormous column of ... does that hung heavily and drifted slowly down-wind along the ... front. The pelting storms of ... swept clouds of dust before them to mingle with the smoke of the bursting shells. At times while sections of the German lines were blotted out by the slow moving curtain of dust and smoke and through the haze could be seen the vivid orange flame of still more bursting shells and springing clouds and pillars of still denser smoke and dust.

"The bellowing thunder of the guns ... shrieks and screams and whi... and rumbel of passing sh... crash and growl and slump of ... have never ceased all ... now, after dark, a steady ... descends on the ... long roll of distant ... kicked-biscuit-fi... rarer batteries, ... from of the shrapnel ...

As far as we can see to the north these flashes tell the story of the artillery's ceaseless activity along the battle front; as far as the ear can catch them to the south, the roll and mutter and rumble of the guns tell the same tale.

"Whatever is to come on the morrow—if it is the big advance at last—the British army is ready and eager for it."

All Missionary Interests Are Represented.

Many of the denominations in the United States and Canada have organized their own denominational committees of the Laymen's Missionary Movement to promote the spirit and methods of the general movement more thoroughly in their own communions. About twenty secretaries are now employed by different committees to give their whole time to the supervision and extension of the movement.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has no membership and no organization apart from a series of committees. There is a general committee of approximately 100 laymen, which meets annually, giving general direction to the movement. There is an executive committee of twenty-five members, which meets each month in New York city, giving closer supervision to the work. Eight division committees are being developed in the United States to give immediate direction to the work in their territory. Four of these division committees have each a secretary devoting his time to the extension of the work of the movement. In each separate city, community or county where work is undertaken a co-operating committee of the movement is organized to give it direction and assistance. Detailed suggestions have been prepared for the guidance and help of such committees.

It is worthy of note that the foreign mission offerings of the Protestant churches of this country, which ... the year of the organization of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, amounted to about eight millions, last year totaled seventeen and a quarter millions. About double that increase has been turned into the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home, and a larger proportion still goes to the work of the local churches. This is due largely to the adoption of the methods of church finance introduced and promoted by the movement and to the increasing interest of the money owners and money makers, the men of the churches in the church's great world work.

The movement has reached out to Great Britain, Australia and several countries of Europe till now its spirit and purpose have attained a worldwide reach.

The present world situation, in which two of the three great Protestant Christian powers are engaged in fratricidal strife, places an altogether unprecedented burden upon the Christian forces of this country to sustain and promote the world missionary enterprises of the church.

The Pittsburgh convention will be held in Exposition hall Oct. 24-27.

Mainly About Women

Sarah Bernhardt will celebrate her 70th birthday tomorrow.

The Bar association of the City of Boston has decided that women lawyers are eligible to membership.

Mme. Carton de Wiart, wife of the Belgian Minister of Justice, has been released from jail in Berlin after having served three months on a charge of spying against the Germans.

It is conservatively estimated that 15,000 women will march in the great suffrage parade in New York city tomorrow night. Women representing 26 different nationalities will be in line.

The Oregon federation of Women's clubs has invited the Rt. Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, to be the principal speaker at the annual convention of the federation in Salem next week.

Mrs. Delva Lockwood who will celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday next Sunday, is the first woman admitted to the practice of law in the United States courts and the only woman who was ever a genuine candidate for the high office of President of the United States.

A stream of blazing light will pour down Broad street in Philadelphia tomorrow night, when the suffragist grand festival of light will welcome to the Quaker City the Woman's Justice Bell, which has been taken on a state-wide tour of Pensylvania as a feature of the suffrage campaign in that state.

The Empress Augusta Victoria, consort of the German Emperor, celebrates her fifty-seventh birthday anniversary today, having been born Oct. 22, 1858, at Schloss Dolzig, the daughter of the Duke and Duchess Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein. The women of twelve states at least will have the privilege of voting at the presidential election next year. These states are Kansas, Illinois, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.. They will also vote in Alaska. The total number of women entitled to vote in nearly four million.

The $200,000 building of the Woman's benefit association of the Maccabees, for which the cornerstone is to be laid today at Port Huron, Mich., will be a monument largely to the efforts of one woman—Miss Bina M. West, the founder and head of the organization. The organization is the largest fraternal benefit society in the world for women. Miss West started the organization in 1892, with no members and no funds. Today there are more than 185,000 women enrolled in the membership of the society. That it has been a success financially as well as numerically is evidenced by the fact that the society has a reserve fund of nearyl $9,000,000, after having paid our nearly $13,000,000 in benefits. At the last convention of the society the delegates passed a resolution to double the salary of Miss West as president, but she steadfastly refused to accept the proposed increase.

Five Centuries of Hohenzollerns

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Not by elaborate public fetes such as would have marked the occasion in normal times, but by quiet ceremonies at schools and in places of worship, did the German people celebrate today the five hundredth anniversary of the Hohenzollerns' accession to power.

Five hundred years ago the Hohenzollerns were mere Burgraves of Nuremberg. One of them, Frederick, had rendered great services to Sigismund, Emperor of Germany, who, as a reward, made Frederick supreme commander of the Marches of Brandenburg, The emperor next raised Frederick to the position of Elector of the Holy German Empire, and on October 21, 1415, he received the homage of his subjects.

Such was the beginning of the ascendancy of the imperial family of which Emperor William II, is now the head. The real era of prominence for the Hohenzollerns did not begin, however, until the time of Frederick William, the Greae Elector, who died in 1688, after having greatly enhanced the prestige of Germany through his successes in the Thirty Years' War.

The Great Elector was succeeded by his son, Frederick III, of Brandenburg, who became the first king of Prussia and assumed the title of Frederick I. Frederick married Sophia Charlotte, a sister of King George I, of England. Born of the union was Frederick William I., the second king of Prussia, who in turn was the father of Frederick II., the third king of Prussia, more often known as Frederick the Great.

A few months after the ascession to the throne Frederick the Great made a sudden invasion of Silesia and began the war of the Austrian succession. Some years later, a powerful coalition having been formed against him by Austria, Russia, France and other powers, Frederick became involved in the Seven Years' War, with the English as an ally. The result of the long war was that Frederick kept Silesia and ceded nothing.

The next of the Hohenzollerns to make a prominent place for himself in history was Frederick William III, who succeeded to the throne in 1797 and reigned until his death in 1840. Frederick William III, had to contend against the might of Napoleon, and, after extraordinary vicissitudes, he aided England in his overthrow.

Frederick William IV came to the throne on the death of his father in 1840 and reigned as king of Prussia until his death in 1861. The successor of Frederick William IV, was his younger brother, who, after waging war successfully against Austria (1866) and France (1870,) was proclaimed first German Emperor at Versailles, January 18, 1871.

William I. died in 1888 and was succeeded by his son, who had distinguished himself at the head of the German armies in the war against France. He came to the throne at the age of 57 years and assumed the title of Frederick III. At the age of 30 he had married the Princess Royal of England, eldest daughter of the late Queen Victoria. Three months after his accession the Emperor Frederick died of cancer of the throat. He was succeeded on the throne by his eldest son, the present Emperor William II, who began his reign June 15, 1888, at the age of 29 years.

SPECIAL ELECTION IN CALIFORNIA.

Sacramento, Oct. 25.—The "non-partisan ballot" campaign, which has stirred California from end to end, came to a close today. Tomorrow, at a special state-wide election, the one million voters of California will decide whether or not they desire party titles retained in their state politics. At the same time the fate of eight other proposed amendments to the constitution, the most of them of minor importance, will be decided by the voters.

The last legislature passed a law abolishing the party title in connection with all state, county and municipal offices and by the operation of the referendum it now comes before the people for final decision. If the people ratify the measure there will hereafter be no such thing as party nominations and campaigns by committee, each candidate securing his place on the ballot by petition and making an individual contest. In the selection of United States senators and representatives, the party title is to be retained.

Jacobs has been in the army 30 years and was on a furlough when he learned that he was wanted by the federal authorities. He immediately returned to Newport and was placed under military arrest.

PART PLAYED BY BARBED WIRE IN THE GREAT WAR

Entrenchments Protected by Entanglements Impossible for Men To Penetrate

BY WILBUR S. FORREST.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

London, October 1.— (By Mail)—The part barbed wire plays in the war is graphically portrayed in letters from the front just before the battle September 25, when the Allies after an almost continuous bombardment of three days made their first appreciable advance since the Marne.

To prepare for the infantry advance at only three points it was necessary to expend thousands of tons of shrapnel and high explosives projectiles along practically the whole line from the sea to the Voges. Thus were the Germans kept in ignorance of what particular sections were to be attacked.

"This is the third day of the bombardment," says one correspondent. "Our artillery fire is intense. Point by point, section by section the trenches' barbed wire, has been pelted with a hurricane of shells. Rifle and machine-gun fire has been absent except for straggling bursts at night.

"Looking over the German lines today, not one sign of life could be seen. Not even trench periscopes were turned over the parapets to indicate the watchfulness of the enemy. Doubtless the German infantry is packed away in its deepest dug-outs. The shells have done their best to search them out, and must have made them extremely uncomfortable.

"The spectacle from our side has been wonderful, awe-inspiring. To the Germans it must have been awful. The tremendous shells of our heavy artillery were bursting in spouting geysers of flame and smoke and dust on the sing heap near Lens, among the houses of the villages and along the lines of the trenches. Lyddite from the howitzers plunged into the communication trenches, blew down their parapets and broke down their sides; and shrapnel were savagely and unceasingly at the masses of barbed wire entanglement protecting the enemy's front.

"The amount of wire the Germans is stupendous. [illegible] what part of the front or same thing is found hedges, piles of wire, strips [illegible] in heaps [illegible] solid round [illegible] more [illegible] "It would [illegible] any [illegible] and cut [illegible] nel cut [illegible] days of [illegible]

"Because the [illegible] well that wire-cutting [illegible] is a preparation for an advance, [illegible] miles more wire must be demolished than are actually required for the attack.

"Throughout today the batteries have been cutting wide stretches of wire, while the "heavies" have been pounding the trenches. Every [illegible] shell that [illegible] throws an enormous column of [illegible] dirt, that hung heavily and drifted slowly down-wind along the [illegible] front. The pelting storms of [illegible] swept clouds of dust before them to mingle with the smoke of the bursting shells. At times while sections of the German lines were blotted out by the slow moving curtain of dust and smoke and through the haze could be seen the vivid orange flame of still more bursting shells and springing clouds and pillars of still denser smoke and dust.

"The bellowing thunder of the guns, the shrieks and screams and whistles and rumbel of passing shells, crash and growl and thump of [illegible] ats have never ceased all day. Now, after dark, a steady [illegible] descends on the German [illegible] long roll of distant [illegible] kicked-biscuit-[illegible] nearer batteries, the [illegible] boom of the shrapnel [illegible]

"[illegible] dark sky flickers and winks all [illegible] the horizon from the gun flashes. As far as we can see to the north these flashes tell the story of the artillery's ceaseless activity along the battle front; as far as the ear can catch them to the south, the roll and mutter and rumble of the guns tell the same tale.

"Whatever is to come on the morrow—if it is the big advance at last—the British army is ready and eager for it."

ALL DENOMINATIONS ARE CO-OPERATING

All Missionary Interests Are Represented.

Many of the denominations in the United States and Canada have organized their own denominational committees of the Laymen's Missionary Movement to promote the spirit and methods of the general movement more thoroughly in their own communions. About twenty secretaries are now employed by different committees to give their whole time to the supervision and extension of the movement.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has no membership and no organization apart from a series of committees. There is a general committee of approximately 100 laymen, which meets annually, giving general direction to the movement. There is an executive committee of twenty-five members, which meets each month in New York city, giving closer supervision to the work. Eight division committees are being developed in the United States to give immediate direction to the work in their territory. Four of these division committees have each a secretary devoting his time to the extension of the work of the movement. In each separate city, community or county where work is undertaken a co-operating committee of the movement is organized to give it direction and assistance. Detailed suggestions have been prepared for the guidance and help of such committees.

It is worthy of note that the foreign mission offerings of the Protestant churches of this country, which in 1906, the year of the organization of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, amounted to about eight millions, last year totaled seventeen and a quarter millions. About double that increase has been turned into the missionary and benevolent work of the church at home, and a larger proportion still goes to the work of the local churches. This is due largely to the adoption of the methods of church finance introduced and promoted by the movement and to the increasing interest of the money owners and money makers, the men of the churches in the church's great world work.

The movement has reached out to Great Britain, Australia and several countries of Europe till now its spirit and purpose have attained a worldwide reach.

The present world situation, in which two of the three great Protestant Christian powers are engaged in fratricidal strife, places an altogether unprecedented burden upon the Christian forces of this country to sustain and promote the world missionary enterprises of the church.

The Pittsburgh convention will be held in Exposition hall Oct. 24-27.

Mainly About Women

Sarah Bernhardt will celebrate her 70th birthday tomorrow.

"Suffrage Day" will be celebrated tomorrow at the Texas State Fair in Dallas.

Mrs. Clara Sibley Hill will soon complete her twelfth year as postmaster at Amherst, Mass.

The Bar association of the City of Boston has decided that women lawyers are eligible to membership.

The National P. E. O., which is to hold its annual convention in San Francisco next week, is one of the largest benevolent organizations of women in the world.

Mme. Carton de Wiart, wife of the Belgian Minister of Justice, has been released from jail in Berlin after having served three months on a charge of spying against the Germans.

It is conservatively estimated that 15,000 women will march in the great suffrage parade in New York city tomorrow night. Women representing 26 different nationalities will be in line.

The Oregon federation of Women's clubs has invited the Rt. Rev. Walter Taylor Sumner, Episcopal bishop of Oregon, to be the principal speaker at the annual convention of the federation in Salem next week.

Mrs. Delva Lockwood who will celebrate her eighty-fifth birthday next Sunday, is the first woman admitted to the practice of law in the United States courts and the only woman who was ever a genuine candidate for the high office of President of the United States.

A stream of blazing light will pour down Broad street in Philadelphia tomorrow night, when the suffragist grand festival of light will welcome to the Quaker City the Woman's Justice Bell, which has been taken on a state-wide tour of Pensylvania as a feature of the suffrage campaign in that state.

The Empress Augusta Victoria, consort of the German Emperor, celebrates her fifty-seventh birthday anniversary today, having been born Oct. 22, 1858, at Schloss Dolzig, the daughter of the Duke and Duchess Friedrich of Schleswig-Holstein. The Empress is just three months and five days older than her husband.

The women of twelve states at least will have the privilege of voting at the presidential election next year. These states are Kansas, Illinois, Nevada, Arizona, Oregon, California, Washington, Idaho, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. They will also vote in Alaska. The total number of women entitled to vote in nearly four million.

The $200,000 building of the Woman's benefit association of the Maccabees, for which the cornerstone is to be laid today at Port Huron, Mich., will be a monument largely to the efforts of one woman—Miss Bina M. West, the founder and head of the organization. The organization is the largest fraternal benefit society in the world for women. Miss West started the organization in 1892, with no members and no funds. Today there are more than 185,000 women enrolled in the membership of the society. That it has been a success financially as well as numerically is evidenced by the fact that the society has a reserve fund of nearyl $9,000,000, after having paid our nearly $13,000,000 in benefits. At the last convention of the society the delegates passed a resolution to double the salary of Miss West as president, but she steadfastly refused to accept the proposed increase.

Five Centuries of Hohenzollerns

Berlin, Oct. 21.—Not by elaborate public fetes such as would have marked the occasion in normal times, but by quiet ceremonies at schools and in places of worship, did the German people celebrate today the five hundredth anniversary of the Hohenzollerns' accession to power.

Five hundred years ago the Hohenzollerns were mere Burgraves of Nuremberg. One of them, Frederick, had rendered great services to Sigismund, Emperor of Germany, who, as a reward, made Frederick supreme commander of the Marches of Brandenburg, The emperor next raised Frederick to the position of Elector of the Holy German Empire, and on October 21, 1415, he received the homage of his subjects.
